Every Advantage Goes to the Big Guys!

A recent cover story in Business Week really tells it all. Frankly, we should have paid them to write the story. Essentially, it says the little guy is screwed, institutions are the ones making the money and the markets are the most "violent" they've ever been.

At TRENDadvisor, we agree with this - that is unless you are a client of ours. This may sound like a shameless plug. I guess on some level it may be. Read on...

In the cover story Jack Bogle, the legendary founder of the Vanguard Group is quoted as saying this "As trading algorithms grew more complex and computers sped up, every advantage went to the big guys."

Charles Schwab goes on to share..."The period since early 2008 "is the worst time since I began the company," says Charles Schwab, the father of the modern American individual investor. "These are the most violent markets."

A broker for Schwab is quoted as saying "The old rules don't work anymore... You can't buy and hold anything with confidence, and that's rattling..."

Think about it, twice in the last decade the market has lost half its value. If you lose 50% you need to double your money to get back to break even. For most, this is unrealistic.

We've all quietly watched as retirees re-enter the workforce because their retirement savings have been decimated. We've seen 401k's become 201k's (and sometimes worse).

Well you know what? It's time to stop being quiet and it's time to start making money. If sophisticated algorithms give every advantage to the big guy, don't you think it's time to have one of those darn "algorithms" working for you?

TRENDadvisor has been perfecting our algorithm for over 20 years now. Over a decade ago we started offering it to our clients. Simply stated, they've made money every year since. In a decade that the Wall Street Journal calls "the worst decade in nearly 200 years", we posted stellar returns for our clients.

Again, in writing this blog we were hesitant to "pound our chests", however it isn't bragging if you can do it - and we can. Bottom-line, if this is a David and Goliath situation and (as Jack Bogle says) "every advantage goes to the big guys", isn't it time to use David's sling-shot? That sling-shot is called an algorithm and we believe we have the best one. Join us!
